PROJECT NOSCE TE IPSUM

My Love! <3

We will be together again! Even though we're separated and on the run right now. To save The New Universe, we need to gather our 7 order members who have been scattered over two planets and then overthrow an "incepted regime"... Right now, I am in [MEOW ö... It's censored!]. The HoloBird I have made, giving you this note, knows how to find only you, because she has followed the air path of our intertwined souls. One day, we will be united again. We will live together as the happy, vibrant, loving and comfortable people we can only be when we're together, for all eternity! It is important that we never stop believing this!

I love you so much

Old Fangs

The interactive episodes of Nosce Te Ipsum, are here for you to conduct self-analysis, in a playful manner. Hopefully you will be My Knight, who completes the quest! There are many benefits in accomplishing that. Here's a list of them:

Obtain a new title

With the Nosce Te Ipsum certificate, you could obtain the title of Practitioner, Illuminatus or Illuminatus Intelligens, depending on the path you choose within the episodes.

Support an international research project designed to enhance our evolutionary process

By, when the book series is finished, submitting your answers, you would assist me in finding The Universal Standard of Human Reasoning, which is a construction of mine to find out the true international public opinion on all aspects of life, as one of the topics of my Nosce Te Ipsum Thesis. The standard will be used to guideline an international evolution aid strategy, to not disadvantage anyone, when formulating this strategy and putting it into practice. To succeed in this, I need to have knowledge about the needs and preferences of the people involved. The end goal is Eternal Peace.

Impress (your employer) even more

With a new-style curriculum vitae [in some English, better known as “resumé”] that emphasizes your unique personality features even more. This is because it is written in an alternative format, which brings to the foreground your skills and knowledge aside from your working experience. The only thing you have to do to obtain this, is complete the quest! (The questions seem very “fantasy-like” in the quest, but when they’re re-stated in a formal format, you’ll see what I’m talking about [in case you didn’t already].) You decide what information you include.

A position within D.O.C.I.S. International

Perhaps you would like a new occupation that suits your new curriculum vitae... As an employer, I find it very important that my employees have The Eternal Holiday Feeling. Currently, I’m a sole proprietor.

A new community for today’s (new) pioneers

The second to last chapter tells you all about how you could become a member of the D.O.C.I.S. International Network, which is an online community where we can put our heads together to make big changes, while being with like-minded people only.

Project Nosce Te Ipsum is here to make a positive difference in our society in many different ways. I'm spreading the ins and outs of the project over the episodes of the first book, instead of cramming it all in the first episode, because I don't want to make your head spin with all of the information. To keep things clear, I'll shortly list for you what I would like to work towards with this project, in summarized steps. This so that you, then, know what you could say you're a part of, if you decide to join D.O.C.I.S. International. After that, you will be given more information about your quest and how to initiate your participation, if you're interested.

In short, this is how Project Nosce Te Ipsum is globally built up:

1) A period in which study means relaxation

A period of interactive self-analysis, using pen and paper, using the books of the Nosce Te Ipsum series. Answers to questions regarding human existence, such as "What truly makes me happy?", "What is my purpose?" and "What are the morals and standards of the culture that suits my personality?", you could formulate according to your own beliefs, throughout the episodes. New ones will be released frequently.

The questions in the survey are, if you decide to submit them, also indirectly focused on finding the international public opinion on all aspects of life, which will be called the Universal Standard of Human Reasoning. It is the algorithm in the aggregate of all submitted answers.

I think it would be a lot of fun to spend this self-research period together, as a community.

2) A period of analysis and elections

After the release of the final episode of the fourth book, there will be a moment on which you can fill out the answers to the questions in the book episode, online. The analysis of submitted surveys, using mathematics, statistics and artificial intelligence, will lead to The Universal Standard of Human Reasoning. During this period, there are also elections for positions within the D.O.C.I.S. International Council. [I'm running, too! That's why there is "Lil Fangs for Praesens" clothing in my online sweatshop :]. (I'm saving up... :D)]

3) The Benefit and The Ceremony

After the release of the final Nosce Te Ipsum I episode, I would like to organize a benefit (that is both at a location and it could be followed from an online live stream), to put into practice one of my solutions to a societal problem.

The initial societal problem I would like to start to tackle more is famine, by allowing people to purchase Benefit Boxes for each other. The contents of the Benefit Box depend on the type of famine that is in the neighborhood of the person who will receive the box. (From fresh foods and seeds to grow foods, against hunger, to books and creative expressions of love, against boredom and the lack of love.) You could buy this for a friend, or for someone in need, who you don't know (or haven't met yet).

In the plan I've made, The Benefit will take 24 hours. During the event, there will also be a ceremony for those who have obtained their new titles :]. I think it would also be nice to have several concerts there and to be able to play (offline and online) casino games of which [a part of?] the profit goes to the costs to manufacture the boxes. If that is how we finance it, we could reach more people.

4) The First Aid

The international distribution of the Benefit Boxes, where everyone who has sent someone else a package, could receive a confirmation of the delivery of their package, if they're interested in this. (This is also because I do not want D.O.C.I.S. International to enter the history books as: "Another organization that claims to make changes, but never delivers any work.") This First Aid is just a first initiative. With the Universal Standard of Human Reasoning, which will also be known as the U.S.H.R., I intend for D.O.C.I.S. International to determine whether other found solutions would be considered acceptable or not. I hope that in that way, if, through this book, D.O.C.I.S. International would grow out to a network with more than one member, we could persist in delivering more contributions to our existence as one big global community.

The Benefit Boxes that go to areas where internet access is less common, will be delivered in two parts. The first box will contain a paper survey about opinions and needs. The second box will be given in exchange for or after the showing of the paper survey, so that the recipients have a better chance to be heard, internationally. [That is only if they want to share their answers.]

5) The Conclusion and The Corporate Island

The conclusion will be announced by publicizing it as a for you personalized story and the movie Nosce Te Ipsum II, which currently is a fill-in-the-gap movie (written by me), of which the filling in of the gaps depends on the aggregate of submitted Nosce Te Ipsum surveys. The book of Nosce Te Ipsum II contain gaps that are filled in with your answers from Nosce Te Ipsum I – if you decide to submit this – in such a way that you'll receive a book with a surprise story, in which you are one of the main characters. (So if you participate, by keeping up with the episodes and submitting your answers, you'll indirectly see yourself in the movie and write your own story!)

By this time, I hope for us to be able to move to D.O.C.I.S. Island, which would be the corporate island of D.O.C.I.S. International, on which its Council members live. The construction time on the island, of the island, depends on the amount of people who want to move there. [Depending on what the majority wants, it could also be a compound in a country that already exists. An independent island is my preference, because there, there's no one who can tell us to not do what we want to do, just because he or she feels that he or she is entitled to take that freedom away from us [while the person with the authority to tell us "no", is allowed to do whatever he or she wants to do]...]

The next chapter contains the interactive aspect of this episode. Every episode of this book series has at least one of such chapters.

It is intended for you to read the interactive chapters, as if you're a character in the graphic science-fiction satire yourself. It tells a fictive story about you and me.

In the story, you could see a line of underscores, followed by a letter, a number, a sign or a combination of these characters. There are multiple ways to work with this.

If you like to work with pen and paper or a document on a device, please write down or type in the letter, number, sign or character combination, followed by what you would think, do, say or in any other way fill in, in the context of the line of underscores. An example of this is:

"What's your name?"

"My name is _____.^{Q1}"

Q1) Dominique Elia

You could also write down your answer on the line itself, if the format in which you are reading this book gives you that alternative.

For multiple choice questions, A^{M1}) means that if you choose answer A, you should continue with question M1.

You can find all direct questions with extra space to answer the question, in the back of the book.

Please store all of your answers to the episodes, somewhere you'll still be able to find it after a year (or more), and make a back-up of it. This because I intend to give you a lot of time to think about your answers, and the moment for the submission of your answers, you could consider "making a test for your certificate", filling out all of your answers at once, you will need to have all of your answers.

The interactive story contains two types of text perception: a direct one and a simulated one.

The direct perception means that you consciously perceive what is happening in the situation and the people are interacting with you, in their true form.

The simulated perception means that you unconsciously perceive the mind, while your body has its eyes closed – in a sleeping state – and is hooked on a simulator bed. In that perception, the people you interact with, are shown to you by your mind's eye.

Every book of the Nosce Te Ipsum series is about an aspect of life. Creation, which you are reading now, is intended to go over everything you believe, think and know, about the topics that relate to the origin of life. There will be three other books: one about society, one about the self and one about love.

Now that I've touched on the many aspects of Project Nosce Te Ipsum, it is time for fun interaction. I really hope you want to become a member of D.O.C.I.S. International.

I wish you a lot of fun, on your quest!

“Thank you all for coming out here tonight. It has been an amazing year for our New Universe. We have made so many positive changes already. Since The Last War, that was solved by the cooperation between new Rulers of Planet Earth and Planet Fang, to set in motion the migration of the citizens of Planet Many. I love the new peaceful cooperation that followed from it, on Zion Islony, too.

I am forever grateful that my proposal of the Eternal Peace Regime was accepted by Ηολι Κητ, The Co-Owner of All SunPower, of our beloved Planet Earth. Please give him a grand applause!”

We’re both clapping very loud, for Ηολι Κητ and The Most Attractive One II. Our faces don’t show as much enthusiasm as our clapping does. We know she indirectly mentioned something that was something the people of Planet Fang want everyone to know, but the people of Planet Earth haven’t been informed about yet, in their context, by the owner of their planet.

He hovers onto the stage – with his white with grey rubber top pads HoverPad – and takes place behind the lectern, while The Most Attractive One II steps off the step behind the lectern, made of solid white light, and sits down on the large, black leather loveseat on the stage.

“Please keep up the applause, for my beloved partner in revolutionary times, The Most Attractive One III!” The applause continues.

“I am proud to announce that I already know the changes, planned for the coming year. This will be announced soon enough. Now dance for me, baby...” He hovers towards the couch, makes the HoverPad float towards the ground, jumps up sideways afterwards, swinging his slowly getting curled up legs forward, in such a way that he can swing the Pad behind the couch with his right hand, while mid-air and upside down, and end up sitting on the couch, next to The Most Attractive One II.

Did he really just do a backflip...? I can't believe I'm seeing this... We all have not been informed about any plans about changes to The Regime.

You can see in the eyes of The Most Attractive One II that she also has no idea of what Ηολι Κητ is suddenly doing, but out of professionalism, she plays along. Without touching the couch with her hands or arms, she smoothly bounces off it and walks to the center of the stage. People applaud. The lights dim down.

Every New Year of SunPower – since The New Universe – is initiated when The Most Attractive One II compensates for the deficit or surplus of The (New) Universe, by physically donating all of her SunPower to The Sun and then receiving back whatever wasn't needed for the compensation. The deficit of The Last War was so great, that the citizens stay afraid of a new war, and show this in the wee spending of their SunPower. The deficit becomes less every year, but it still hasn't become zero or a surplus yet.

To provide The Sun with the needed amount of SunPower and then receive back her remaining balance, she does the ritual dance that only Rulers can do.
